

8 April 8, 2002 www.uga.edu/columns/

COLUMNS

Reef balls, dome-shaped concrete structures filled with holes, are strategically placed into the ocean, where they will act as artificial reefs, restoring marine life where natural reefs have been damaged or creating a reef where none previously existed.

Working with Marsha Pard artificial reef Providencial

Life's reef ~~a beach~~

During spring break, students from UGA's

